Shot Eve comes back from 'dead'

KILLING EVE (15)
(BBC iPlayer from Monday)

★★★★
SO she still hasn't managed it. "She" being Jodie Comer's Villanelle, everyone's favourite psychopath. And "it" is being the bumping-off of Sandra Oh's Eve, the MI6 agent with whom she's spent two series playing a deadly game of cat and mouse. We guessed as much. Eve may have been gunned down by her nemesis in series two's closing moments, left for dead in Rome but we never really believed she was a goner, did we?

Cold-blooded

Series three, starting on the BBC iPlayer, begins in a Moscow gym in 1974, for reasons which will become apparent. It then whizzes back to the present and flits across a vast array of locations, from Barcelona to, er, New Malden. While Eve is now leading a pitifully lowly existence, desperate to put the past behind her, Villanelle is finding new ways to move on. This is both personally, as you'll see in a rather surprising opening scene, and professionally. But don't worry, she's still a cold-blooded nutjob-for-hire.

Those joining the cast for this third run include mysterious newcomer Felix (Stefan Iancu) in a clown costume and looking like he and Villanelle are on a mission. And there's Steve Pemberton, an ex-colleague of MI6's Carolyn Martens (Fiona Shaw) whose return puts her nose out of joint; and Harriet Walter, as an old face from Villanelle's past with whom she has a few significant things in common. MW

TROLL LOT OF FUN

TROLLS: WORLD TOUR (U)
THIS follow-up to DreamWorks' 2016 musical hit, follows all the rules of the sequel, but with a new villain. We learn our heroes Poppy (Anna Kendrick) and Branch (Justin Timberlake) aren't the only music fans on the block. Poppy, Branch and James Corden's Biggie go down some amusing byroads on the way to the slightly preachy finale. Sam Rockwell raises chuckles as a country music troll and Jamie Dornan nearly steals the show as a sinister smooth jazz troll who tranquillises his victims with laid-back beats. This loud and fitfully funny adventure isn't a film to relax to. Still, if it exhausts the kids, it could be money well spent. AL

MY FAVOURITE STREAM

ALEX HORNE, comedian and Taskmaster star:
"My wife and I are still wading through Succession (Sky Atlantic). It's about a wealthy, dominant family made up of the worst people in the world, which makes us feel slightly better about ourselves. "It's written by Jesse Armstrong, the brilliant creator of Peep Show."

DANGER CLOSE (15)
(Streaming now on major platforms)

★★★★
VIKINGS star Travis Fimmel is the most recognisable face in this Aussie war movie. It tells the story of 1966's Battle Of Long Tan, in which 108 young soldiers from Australia and New Zealand fended off an estimated 2,000 battle-hardened Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces who were amassing a few miles from their base. It's not as sophisticated as classic Hollywood Vietnam movies, but the action is well researched and explosively staged. AL

SONIC THE HEDGEHOG (PG)
(Streaming now on major platforms)
AFTER a raft of dire adaptations, gamers weren't jumping for joy over the prospect of a movie based on Sega's coin-collecting hedgehog. But set your expectations suitably low and this formulaic but fun family adventure may be a pleasant surprise. Here Sonic (voiced by Ben Schwartz) is a teenage CGI alien who recruits a small town cop to help him escape an oddball scientist. The slapstick should delight kids, while the double-edged jokes are just sharp enough to stop parents from nodding off. AL

JUST MERCY (12)

JAMIE Foxx delivers his best performance for many years in this heartbreaking death row drama. The actor, who won an Oscar in 2005 as Ray Charles, plays Walter "Johnny D" McMillian, who in 1987 was arrested for the murder of teenage white girl. Michael B Jordan delivers a soulful turn as a fearless attorney who tried to overturn a shocking miscarriage of justice. It's powerful but difficult to watch. AL
